- 1 SEC. 206. (a) Notwithstanding any other provision of
- 2 law, beginning with the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1971,
- 3 no funds appropriated to or for the use of the Department of
- 4 Defense for any fiscal year may be expended for carrying out

Amdt. No. 814

1 research or study projects involving foreign affairs, foreign
2 areas, or related matters except to the extent that the total
3 amount expended for such purposes in such fiscal year does 4 not exceed an amount equal to the total amount expended by 5 the Department of State in the immediately preceding fiscal 6 year for research and study projects (involving foreign af-
7 fairs, foreign areas, or related matters) which were conducted
8 for the Department of State by persons or organizations out-
9 side such Department. The total amount expended by the 10 Department of State in any fiscal year for such projects shall 11 include amounts transferred to the Department of State from 12 other departments and agencies for the purpose of having 13 such projects carried out under the direction of the Depart-
14 ment of State.

15 (b) The head of any department or agency of the Fed-16 eral Government shall, in response to any request made to 17 him in writing by a committee of the Congress, promptly 18 submit to such committee a copy of any report, study, or in-19 vestigation requested by such committee if the report, study,
20 or investigation was financed in whole or in part with Fed-
21 eral funds and was made by a person outside the Federal 22 Government, except that this requirement shall not apply in 23 the case of any report, study, or investigation with respect to 24 which the President exercises the right of executive privilege.
